

PRINCESS PATTTER

A daily guide to cruise activities

AT SEA • FRIDAY, JULY 21, 2006 • SEA PRINCESS
Sunrise 5:18am • Sunset 9:55pm • Tonight's dress: Smart casual

Beaufort Scale

What is the Beaufort Scale? The Officers of the Watch frequently give us the wind speed measurements in the "BEAUFORT SCALE." In 1806 Admiral Sir Frances Beaufort devised a scale for recording wind force at sea. It was based on the effect of the wind on a fully rigged man o' war. In 1838 the scale was adopted by the British Admiralty and in 1874 it was adopted for use internationally. Since 1948, wind speed has been determined according to measurements made by an Anemometer at 10 meters (30 feet) above the ground. The Beaufort Scale ranges from Force 0: calm or winds of less than 1 knot, to Force 12: hurricane winds at 64 knots or above.

TO ALL OUR PASSENGERS DISEMBARKING IN SOUTHAMPTON

There is still a fun-filled day ahead of you and of course an evening of dining & entertainment on board - so the cruise is by no means over! However, as this is the final Princess Patter for this cruise, we would like to take this opportunity to say farewell & thank you! We sincerely hope that you have enjoyed your cruise onboard the Sea Princess and we look forward to welcoming you back on another Princess cruise in the near future. Captain Julian Burgess, the Officers and the entire Ship's Company thank you for sailing with us and we wish you all a safe onward journey!

PASSENGER QUESTIONNAIRE

Over the years Princess has proven to have an excellent product and we demand excellence from everyone here. A rating less than that is viewed quite seriously. If you enjoyed everything around the ship, please go ahead and give the highest rating possible. Please don't penalise a whole department for an isolated incident. Comment on the incident in the space provided on the form, and then maintain the high rating that you would have given. Thank you!
